

UNIPOL GROUP TO CELEBRATE AGAIN AT THE LABOUR DAY CONCERT

Bologna, 16 April 2019

As per tradition, the Unipol Group will once again sponsor the Labour Day Concert in 2019, supporting both its message and the celebration. The biggest free concert in Italy - organized by the CGIL, Cisl and UIL unions to celebrate workers - has reached its 29th edition and, like every year, will be held in Piazza di Porta San Giovanni in Laterano, Rome, where leading artists from the Italian and international music scene will perform.

The musical marathon, to be aired in full on Rai 3 and RaiRadio2 starting at 3:00pm, will include performances by Noel Gallagher, Daniele Silvestri, Ghali, Ex Otago, Subsonica, Motta, Negrita, La Rappresentante di Lista, La Municipàl, Pinguini Tattici Nucleari and Ghemon. Other major artists will be announced over the coming days to complete a cast that, as always, will attract a huge audience in the capital.

Again this year, the event promises to bring a wide range of musical genres, young musicians and established artists to the stage. Unipol has always supported the organization of quality events, with the aim of translating its values into a concrete sign of development and enrichment for people and the community. In this context, the Labour Day Concert is of great social and cultural significance and an event worth supporting and promoting.
