UNIPOLSAI ALONGSIDE BANCO ALIMENTARE FOR THE 20TH NATIONAL FOOD COLLECTION DAY

For the tenth consecutive year, UnipolSai Assicurazioni will be alongside Fondazione Banco Alimentare Onlus for the National Food Collection Day, with the twentieth edition programmed for Saturday 26 November.

Last year no less than 8,990 tonnes of food were collected and each year the challenge is launched to donate even more. The 135,000 volunteers who tomorrow will be present in over 11,000 supermarkets across Italy strongly believe in the initiative. Their request is always the same: to donate long-life food to be distributed to over 8,000 charitable organisations that in Italy help nearly 2 million poor people.

Not only a gesture of generosity towards all of those who today, across the country, are unable to meet the minimum costs of food, but also a strong signal by UnipolSai which once again confirms its commitment to the social sphere in line with the social responsibility actions of the Group. Actions that have always aimed to promote the health and wellbeing of people, resulting in support for initiatives such as the National Food Collection Day, which enhance the life of each individual and the community as a whole.

"Do not look away or turn your back to avoid seeing the many forms of poverty that ask for mercy. [...] you express one of the most beautiful desires of the human heart, and make those who suffer feel loved."

(Speech by Pope Francis to the participants of the Jubilee of the operators of mercy, 3 September 2016, Piazza San Pietro)

With its Corporate Sponsorship Program, UnipolSai Assicurazioni and the Unipol Group wish to always remain close to people and the community, supporting projects that embrace art, culture, sport, the environment, entertainment, scientific research and social utility, such as in the case of the important event tomorrow.
